

CHANCES AGAINST HAUPTMANN ARE 100 TO 1

FOUR YOUTHS CONFESS DOCTOR'S MURDER

Chicago Detectives Dogged Work is Successful

Chicago, March 28.—(AP)—Two months of dogged detective work came to a swift climax today in the confession of four young desperadoes that they had committed the slaying of Dr. Silber C. Peacock.

Capt. Harry O'Connell disclosed Robert Goethe, Durland, Nash and Emil Reck, each 19, and Michael Livingston, 17, had admitted that they slew the widely known pediatrician in a robbery that netted them $20.

Dr. Peacock was lured from his fashionable apartment on a spurious sick call on the night of Jan. 2. The next day his crumpled body was found in his car in an isolated north side district.

The confessions told how the youths closed in on the physician as he alighted from his machine. Nash was quoted as saying: "Dr. Peacock started to fight. I hit him with my pistol. Livingston or Reck grabbed a knife out of the doctor's bag and cut him on the head and neck. He kicked Goethe in the groin. That made him mad and Goethe shot him. We put the body in his car and hauled it away. On the way Goethe hit him a few more times to make sure he was done for."

Divided Loot.
"We divided the money—$5 apiece—at a tavern. We spent it for food and liquor."

Officials quickly reconstructed the prisoners' amazing career of crime. They said they had been connected with 43 robberies, a gun battle with police, the serious wounding of a customer in a store holdup and the beating of an aged couple.

Capt. John Prendergast said he was questioning the youths concerning the "cigarette murder mystery"—the killing of Kenneth A. Morrison, assistant controller of the Chicago park board, who was found with a cigarette hanging from his lifeless lips last Aug. 13.

Swallowed Razor Blade.
Reck's interrogation was interrupted when he fell to the floor of the West North Avenue station, bleeding from the mouth and crying he was dying. Detectives said he had swallowed a razor blade. He was rushed to a hospital.

The pick of Chicago's investigators concentrated on the solution of the Peacock slaying. Two months ago the case was placed in the hands of Sergeant Andrew Aiken and his detail. They enlisted the cooperation of the Chicago Medical Society.

They doggedly trailed physicians called out on apparently fake mercy missions.
Last Wednesday, they picked up Nash, Goethe and Reck. Two of the seven physicians they had robbed identified them. Questioning veered to the Peacock mystery.

Last night, O'Connell disclosed, the quartet confessed.

"I am glad to hear my husband's murder has been solved," asserted the physician's widow, Mrs. Ruth Peacock at Bowen, Ill., where she is residing with her daughter Betty, 8.

SOME ODDITIES IN TODAY'S A. P. WORLD NEWS REPORT

CHANGED HIS MIND.
Holslein, Neb., March 28.—(AP)—Fred Aufdenkamp, who had just received Adams county's first old age assistance check, took a look at his grain bins. Then he sat down and wrote a letter in which he returned the check to County Clerk T. W. Jones.

"The corn turned out better than I had expected," he explained.

WERE THEIR FACES RED?
Walla Walla, Wash., March 28.—(AP)—Dr. Chester S. Maxey, political science professor at Whitman College, asked his class why it would recommend four books he had named for reference work. All but one students expressed high regard for the volumes, but changed their minds when the professor announced there were no such books.

DON'T LIKE COMPANY.
Anchorage, Alaska, March 28.—(AP)—It got too crowded for Mr. and Mrs. Bill Hammersley, who operate a trading post at Igluiguk. When several families moved into the district recently, the Hammersleys decided the population was getting "too dense for comfort."

and moved to Kukaklek Lake, where there isn't a white family within 100 miles.

BROTHER, SISTER REUNITED AFTER
50-YEAR PERIOD

Canton, Ill., March 28.—(AP)—A brother and sister today were reunited after 50 years' separation, each believing the other dead.

Yesterday Robert Brooks of Lewistown went to the home of his aunt, Mrs. Theodore Ryan, telling her:

"I've brought your brother, 'Ike,' with me."

"But 'Ike' has been dead 45 years," she protested.

But the man with Brooks was Isaac Hale of Springfield, Mo., who had left Fulton county more than half a century ago because of ill health. He had not been heard from since 1891.

A visit to a fortune teller years ago convinced Mrs. Ryan, she said, of her brother's death, and two undelivered letters caused Hale to believe his sister dead.

Hale's return was prompted by a desire to locate relatives who lived in Canton.

Kin of Dixonites
Dead in Galesburg

Dixon friends of Earl A. Tollman, Lyons, Ia., were shocked to learn this morning of his sudden death which occurred at 4 P. M. Friday in a Galesburg hotel.

Tollman was a nephew of Mrs. O. D. Sweetman and a cousin of Mrs. Glenn Pelton. He travelled as a salesman for the Ruggles-Rademacher Salt Co. and enjoyed a large circle of friends in the communities on his route. Death resulted presumably from a heart attack.

KEROSENE PRICE UP

VERA WILL TELL WHY SHE KILLED LOVER ON MONDAY

Enigma Woman of Tower Shooting Tells Yielding Love

New York, March 28.—(AP)—The theme of love domination by a man at once brilliant and fascinating is woven through the defense of Vera Stretz, 32-year-old university graduate, on trial for the slaying of her lover, Fritz Gebhardt.

Granted a two-day respite from the stand during the week-end recess, the enigma woman of last November's Tower apartment killing planned the climax of her defense today behind a mask-like countenance.

When court resumes Monday, she will tell why she fired four shots into the body of the German industrialist whom she said she loved "very, very dearly."

In her first appearance on the stand yesterday tears reddened her eyes as her affair with Gebhardt was unfolded to a jury in General Sessions court.

Regained Assurance
But as the day wore on, she assumed command of the situation, conferring in new self-assurance with the bench and her counsel, Samuel P. Leibowitz. The attorney strove to prove the woman was dominated by Gebhardt.

In a hushed voice she admitted she shot him to death in his skyscraper bedroom last Nov. 12, with four bullets fired from a stubby revolver.

Why she did it is a puzzle so far unsolved in the testimony.

Leibowitz has implied, however, that she killed Gebhardt, a married man and father of two children, to save herself from an unnatural assault. The prosecution, though not in testimony, has intimated a view that she killed him in a passion of jealousy.

Gebhardt told her she testified, he had not lived with his wife in Germany for 10 years, and promised to get a divorce and marry her.

Graved a Child
"If you had given me only a child," one of the letters she wrote him said, "I would have been lost in the charming, whimsical selfish details of bearing and rearing him."

Another of her letters said, "when I think retrospectively of our adventure, I marvel that two after all different individuals could live such utterly intimate lives as we and still love each other."

Dr. Gebhardt told her, Miss Stretz testified, obtaining his divorce in Germany would be "only a formality" and that the American girl then was to go to Germany to manage his country home, which they had planned to convert into an asylum for mal-adjusted children, and she had expected to be married to him this spring, she said.

Miss Stretz said she and Gebhardt first became intimate last May at a hotel in Lake George. She protested when he registered them as husband and wife, "because I wasn't his wife," she said.

But she added, "I yielded because I loved him."

ON EXTORTION CHARGE
Chicago—Elmer Cable, former Chicago school teacher now of Rockford, Ill., was unable to identify Samuel Wilens, 39, as one of the men who extorted $6,000 from him March 8, 1935. Wilens failed in an effort to obtain a habeas corpus writ and was held on a charge of attempting to extort $500 from Otto Klein, 40, Chicago garage owner.

that the aged man had called at his home Wednesday to borrow a post hole digger and appeared in his usual health. Thursday forenoon, Mrs. Parks observed a team in the corn field at the Hornberger farm and about noon yesterday saw the team wandering about the field, and informed her husband who with Denning went to the Hornberger home. Finding no trace of the man at the home, they proceeded to the corn field where they discovered the body lying on the ground. The jury returned a verdict finding that death resulted from a heart attack.

Mr. Hornberger lived alone on a small tenant farm south of Paw Paw, his wife having passed away at Mendota a few years ago. Efforts were being made today to locate a brother who was said to be living near Hammond, Ind., and other relatives.

Three Killed in Rail Wreck

Two engineers and one fireman were killed, and another fireman seriously injured, when the crack Philadelphia Night Express hurtled from the track while rounding a curve a few miles southeast of Pittsburgh, and piled together like a toy train, as shown above. One of the express' two wrecked locomotives is shown at right. A car of a freight train, rounding the curve in the opposite direction is believed to have broken free, swung out and fouled the passenger train.

EXECUTION OF HOMELESS DOGS IS PROGRESSING

28 Stray Canines Have Been Disposed of During Month

Charles Myers, city dog catcher, is making vast inroads on the stray dog population of Dixon, Commissioner Cal G. Tyler, informed members of the city council last evening. Fourteen canines, ownerless and homeless, were gathered in during the present week and destroyed, making a total of 28 to be eliminated thus far during the month of March.

"I am at a loss to know where all the dogs come from," Commissioner Tyler told the commission members. "They have appeared in battalions and regiments, but through the activity of our dog

FOUR MET DEATH IN PLANE CRASH IN ARIZ. MOUNTS

Oracle, Ariz., March 28.—(AP)—A wrecked airplane, a fresh fall of snow and the jutting rock of a mountain canyon told the story today of an aerial tragedy in which four men lost their lives.

A two-day search by posers, army planes and soldiers from both sides of the Mexican border ended yesterday when a range riding cowboy found the ship dashed to splinters against a canyon wall in the rugged Gallego mountains, 26 miles east of here.

The victims, all of Phoenix, Ariz., were:

Paul O'Neal, 30, president of the Copperclad Airways and pilot of the plane.

Harold Marks, 31, attorney, and a director of the U. S. Junior Chamber of Commerce.

John Powers, 35, executive secretary of the Phoenix Chamber of Commerce.

Paul Swasey, 34, drug store manager.

The four left Douglas for a flight to Phoenix Wednesday.

Bartholomew and Charles Bohlen of Nelson, passed away at her home, 716 Fifth avenue, Sterling at 5:30 o'clock this morning after an illness which extended from Thanksgiving time. She had been bedfast for seven weeks before her death. An only daughter, Mrs. Theresa M. Ansbach also survives. Miners' War Blamed for Incendiary Fire Marissa, Ill., March 28.—(AP)—Illinois' inter-union mine warfare was blamed today by D. L. Lee, president of the Lee Publishing Co., for an incendiary fire that destroyed his printing plant here.

Lee asserted the fire, early yesterday, was intended to prevent publication of "The Progressive Miner," weekly newspaper of the Progressive Miners' union which the firm prints under contract. The publisher said until his plant is rebuilt the miners' weekly and 14 other publications handled by the firm would be printed by some other company.

BLIND MAN SUCCEEDS
The St. Louis Star-Times of Thursday evening published a picture of Thomas Howard Overton, blind, formerly of the Dixon state hospital, who is pooling physical resources with Stanley A. Kaspryzk, armless, in going through a Chicago law school. The accompanying article stated that Overton has the highest grades in the freshman class of 175 students.

SOME PAVEMENT DAMAGED WHEN FROST LEAVES

The bituminous macadam paving both east and west of the Nachusa corners has been badly damaged during the past few days by the frost leaving the ground. In some places, the heavy rock foundation has come to the surface and the state highway department has made temporary repairs to permit the traffic to pass. The worst damage has occurred east of the Nachusa orphanage and it is expected that about a half mile of the bituminous stretch of paving will have to be replaced this spring.

A long stretch of cement paving east of Franklin Grove is sinking out of sight and the state highway department maintenance crews was hauling ashes today to fill up the depression. Heavy trucks passing over the cement slab under which the frost has left the ground, were breaking up the slab and forcing it into the soft earth roadbed.

On the Rock Island road, west of the Cook school house, several bad holes have appeared in the gravel surfaced road, where the frost has gone out. Crushed stone is being hauled in by Commissioner Amos Eberly of Nelson township to provide safe passage for traffic until the damage can be permanently repaired.

Fire Department is Busy this Morning

The fire department responded to four alarms this morning, three being grass fires which threatened adjoining property. At 10:45 two alarms were received at the same time to opposite sections of the city, necessitating the use of both trucks. The first alarm was received at 7:30 this morning when sparks from a chimney started a roof fire at the Barry Stewart home, 514 Sixth street. The blaze was extinguished with minor damage.

At 10:45 the two trucks responded to calls from the east end of McKinney street and College avenue and Woodlawn street and at 11:30 another run was made to West Morgan street in each instance, grass fires being extinguished.

REPRIEVE NOT INTENTION OF GOV. HOFFMAN

Pardons Court Not Expected to Allow Appeal

(Copyright, 1936, by The AP.)
Trenton, N. J., March 26.—Governor Harold G. Hoffman today declared he had no intention of granting Bruno Hauptmann another reprieve.

He declined, however, to commit himself as to what he might do in the event of a confession or some other unusually important development which would justify prolonging the life of the convicted Lindbergh baby slayer.

There also is an opinion in at least one high source that unless the Court of Pardons intervenes Monday, Hauptmann stands little chance to escape the chair.

This source said:

Chances 100 to 1.
"The chances against Hauptmann are 100 to one. The one possibility would be either a confession from the prisoner or some other very important development which would justify extraordinary action."

"There is little hope that the Court of Pardons will intervene Monday, since this body holds it is a clemency and not a trial court. Any convict appearing before it must admit guilt and appeal for mercy. Hauptmann refuses to admit his guilt and has shown no sign of breaking or changing his story."

The governor restated his intention not to extend Hauptmann's life as a growing feeling spread in some quarters in Trenton that a second reprieve would be granted.

Depends on Wilentz.
He reiterated that when he announced the first stay in January he said there would be no second reprieve unless Attorney General David T. Wilentz, who prosecuted Hauptmann, consented.

Any hope that Wilentz would agree to a reprieve nor did he comment in reply to the question:

"If there is some development which, in your opinion, justifies exceptional action on your part, will you act regardless of what the position of the attorney-general may be?"

The governor, in the interview, talked for more than two hours, quietly but spiritedly defending his actions in the Hauptmann case.

Occasionally, he became emphatic in making his point. There was a gesture now and then and at other times he used his pencil in drawing diagrams of exhibits, such as the lumber from Hauptmann's house, which have figured in the case.

Wants Justice Done.
"My one desire has been to see that justice is done, and that the Lindbergh mystery is fully solved," he said. "When I granted a reprieve in January I was informed I was within my legal rights and there also was the matter of precedent. Any number of governors have so acted. I have been informed that my legal right to

UNION AGITATOR ESCORTED FROM TOWN, RETURNS

St. Louis, March 28.—(AP)—Mrs. Leah Olive, an organizer for the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union, who was escorted out of Pinckneyville, Ill., Wednesday by a group of women who objected to her activities, returned there today.

Mrs. Olive was taken forcibly from her hotel and escorted to the railroad station by several hundred employees of the Kearns Brothers' dress factory. On the way she was jostled and jeered and warned that she would have her clothes torn off in the street if she returned.

The workers said they opposed union organization on the ground that it might result in the factory being moved from Pinckneyville.

Ben Gilbert, manager of the union in St. Louis, charged the demonstration was "obviously organized and backed by the employers, x x x All the employees would not walk out of a factory for such a demonstration unless they had the backing and consent of the employers."

He declared the union intended to organize the factory and "if Mrs. Olive doesn't do it, somebody else will."

Congressmen Facing Opposition Pledged to Townsend Plan Want Speedy Action in Investigation

Washington, March 28.—(AP)—With an eye on rapidly approaching primary elections, congressional leaders today pushed for further disclosures about the Townsend $200-a-month old age pension plan.

Members faced with primary opposition from candidates pledged to the Townsend program were understood to be urging speed in the house investigation of the nationwide movement. The investigating committee will reopen public hearings Wednesday.

Several legislators privately expressed the hope the investigation findings will provide them with campaign ammunition to answer arguments of Townsendite candidates.

Chairman Bell (D-Mo.), other committee members and their counsel, James R. Sullivan, are checking testimony given by R. E. Clements, who recently resigned as national secretary of the Townsend organization after a split with Dr. F. E. Townsend.

The committee received testimony that receipts of the Revolving Old Age Pensions, Inc. (the Townsend organization) totaled nearly a million dollars since its inception. They indicated, however, they were not entirely satisfied with details of the evidence.

grant a further reprieve has now expired.

The governor said he had consulted legal authorities other than the attorney general for advice.

He asserted there was "plenty of evidence" for a court to consider but would not comment whether it would come before the Court of Pardons, of which he is a member.

"Have you visited Hauptmann since your trip to the death house last October?"

"I have not."

No Word From Bruno

"Have there been any further requests from Hauptmann to see you?"

"None."

"Would you visit him again if a request came?"

"I do not know. It is impossible to say what I would do until the occasion arises."

"Have you seen Dr. Condon (Jaffie), the ransom intermediary, yet?"

"I have not."

"Do you intend to see him?"

"That would be futile. I will not visit him in his home and the conditions he has outlined would make it impossible for me to question him as I desire."

Has One Precedent

There had been a growing belief that the governor would issue a reprieve if the pardons court declined to interfere. The law says the governor may exercise the right of reprieve for a 90-day period following conviction, but there is one precedent for reprieve after the time limit expired, and Hoffman may use that as the basis for a new reprieve.

Wilentz, who prosecuted Hauptmann at Flemington, took issue with the governor's charge that the trial "reeked with unfairness, passion and prejudice."

"Hauptmann is as guilty today as he was the day he was convicted," Wilentz said in a formal statement. "Nothing has happened to change that. At that time, the New Jersey Court of Errors and Appeals said:

"Our conclusion is that the verdict is not only not contrary to the weight of the evidence but is one to which the evidence inescapably led. And discarding the testimony of witnesses classified as irresponsible the result is the same. From three different and in main unrelated sources, the proofs point unerringly to guilt."

"And the court also said: 'There was much more evidence tending to establish his guilt. It was a circumstantial case, with the evidence pointing to guilt from so many directions as to leave no room for reasonable doubt.'"

No Changes Made

"Nothing has happened to change those views—those views so ably expressed—even the attack upon the prosecutor who is known to everybody as a man of unquestioned character and a public official of ability and of the highest standing."

"We dispute the right of the governor to place the prestige and weight of his office behind his latest accusation that 'the case reeks with unfairness, passion and prejudice.' He usurps the functions of the courts when he attempts as governor to pass upon this phase of the case."

"During the trial, not even Hauptmann made any claim of unfairness and defense counsel in his concluding address to the jury stated: 'I think we have played along so fairly, so nicely in this trial that we can still continue to go along that way.'"

"I understand that the governor may ask my views about a reprieve and therefore I will withhold them until that time."

The Attorney General has said repeatedly that the governor does not have such authority. He is understood, however, to plan to take no action should the governor sign such a reprieve.

Criminologist to Report

Robert W. Hicks, a Washington criminologist, returned by plane from Havana, Cuba, where he has been investigating certain phases of the case. He was to make an immediate report to the governor.

Hicks checked on a report that Isidor Fisch, friend of Hauptmann, now dead, had offered to sell in Havana some "hot" money—presumably part of the $50,000 Lindbergh ransom. If substantiated, the story would bolster Hauptmann's contention that the ransom money found in his possession came to him from Fisch. Hauptmann has repeatedly said the ransom money was left in his custody by the little furrier, and that he did not know until later that the package entrusted to him contained currency.

Governor Hoffman also received word from Secretary Ickes of the department of interior, that Arch W. Loney, a department word tester, had his permission to continue investigations on the Hauptmann case but "strictly in a personal, private capacity."

Hauk Ready to Fight

At the same time the department of justice at Washington made clear that so far as that branch of the Federal government was concerned the Lindbergh case was closed.

Anthony M. Hauck, Jr., the Hunterdon county prosecutor whom the governor in a scathing attack yesterday dubbed the "errand boy for the attorney-general," said he would go to the courts, if necessary, to force the execution of the "Public Enemy No. 1 of the World," as Hauptmann was called by the prosecution at Flemington.

"I would rather be the errand boy for the attorney general," Hauck said, "than the errand boy of a murderer."

This sharp exchange between the chief executive and the chief assistant of the attorney general in the Hauptmann case, came in the midst of a last effort by Hauptmann's chief of counsel, C. Lloyd Fisher, to have the court of pardons, which Governor Hoffman heads, consider a new plea for commutation of the death sentence.

The court will convene Monday morning at 11 o'clock to consider the plea.

Claim New Evidence

A previous appeal to the pardons court was denied. Hauptmann's counsel said he had "new evidence" on which to base a request for a new trial if the court of pardons appeal fails. He declined to say what the evidence was.

Lower Lands—

No particular alarm was expressed in Golconda, despite forecasts of a continued rise of the river. Sanitary conditions were considered good. The city water plant, it was pointed out, is well outside of the flood zone.

Wabash Is Rising

In lower Pope county it was estimated that approximately 100 residents had been forced from their farm homes.

At Mt. Carmel the Wabash river threatened to surpass flood stage.

Mayor William Brinkley of Shawneetown said 46 foot flood crest was expected at that point but as the levee will withstand a 60 foot high water level there was no anxiety there.

Ferry service at Shawneetown and at New Harmony, Ind., has been suspended.

catcher, 14 have been taken from the ranks and destroyed this week and the work is to be continued in same vigorous manner in which it has been started early this spring."

Citizens residing in the extreme western part of the city on Third street, filed a petition with the council complaining of the unsanitary situation existing at the old Kelly sand pit, which has for several years been used as a dump ground, and urging the commission to take some immediate action to halt the practice. Members of the council reported that they had visited and inspected the site of the complaint and the council was unanimously in favor of taking some immediate action. The petition bore the signatures of 23 residents of that section, some of whom were present in the council chambers. Commissioner Joe E. Valle told the council that the abandoned pit had been used for a dump ground for the past ten years and while being a nuisance, had depreciated the value of property in that section. He urged immediate action in eliminating the offensive and unsanitary condition and the petition was referred to City Attorney Martin J. Gannon to report at the next meeting.

Bids on Garbage Collection

Bids for the collection of garbage and refuse for the coming year were opened by Mayor Stothower and placed on file for 48 hours for public inspection before the contract is awarded. The bids were as follows: James McCoy, $3,500; John O. Nelson, $2,886; Ernest Stewart, $3,345; W. H. Mays, $3,200; Ed Lambert, $2,749; William Wedekind, $3,650.

Automotive dealers of Dixon submitted to the council a draft of an ordinance, and requested its passage, which would provide for a daily license fee to be charged by the city against itinerant dealers in used automobiles and auto parts.

Residence of at least one year in the city is required of the licensee. Similar ordinances have been adopted and are in force of several nearby cities. The ordinance was referred to City Attorney Gannon for his inspection before being presented for passage to the council.

A resolution providing for the transfer from the contingent fund to the general fund of the sum of $1,000 to be used in payment of current claims against the city, was adopted by the unanimous vote of the council.

LIFE'S TALISMAN.

By Joseph Fort Newton.

WHAT is it that finds meaning and music in life, shapes its raw stuff into forms of beauty, and gives it the lift and lift of a lyric?

What is it that is older than everything, yet younger than the dawn, or the buds of spring, or the laughter in the heart of a child?

What is it that makes man stronger than the whole world, yet weaker than a child, stronger than tempered steel but more tender than a tear?

What is it that is gentler than a more unshakable than a rock, yet softer than wax, able to do and endure, to give and forgive to the uttermost?

What is it that is gentler than a sigh, as holy as a prayer, yet joyous as a song, turning tedium into te-deum, and weights into wings?

What is it that is finer than faith, and profounder than philosophy, as deep as life, as deep as infancy and old age, as deep as love and death?

What is it that survives everything, yet seems so frail and clinging, that cannot be taken, but takes everything and gives everything too?

What is it that sees into the life, yet appears to be blind, that knows without logic, sees beauty in ugliness and good beyond the evil?

What is it that stands when everything fails, win when all else fails, that never tires never taries, and never lets go or gives up?

What is it that lives not to get but to give, caring, sharing, bearing, believing in the good that can be and making its vision come true?

What is it that comforts when life is broken, endures when everything slips away, and abides when what is imperfect is done away.

What is it that outlasts knowledge, testifies when prophecies are dumb, and does not cease even when vision is tipped with darkness?

What is it that explains when high talk ends, blesses when life is blasted, makes the wonder of the simple wiser than worldly wisdom?

What is it that never changes even when all changes? It is Love, and only that is love which never becomes anything else—for God is Love.

By as much as we love by so much we live, for life is love and love is life—and love can never lose its own in life or death.

Eye Wrinkles Due To Strain or Neglect

By ALICIA HART

Premature lines and wrinkles around the eyes generally are caused either by eyestrain or pure neglect. If you insist upon going without glasses when you know perfectly well that you need them, and although you know your skin is dry, never put nourishing cream around your eyes at night, fine lines are your own fault.

If reading tires your eyes and makes your head ache, by all means see an eye doctor at once. If he recommends glasses, get them immediately. You probably won't have to wear them with hats and evening gowns, so why worry? Even if you do, judicious shopping for frames that are more flattering than you suspect and careful choice of clothes will make you hate glasses a good deal less. Stick to hats with brims, coiffures which forms a soft frame for your face and, for evening glasses, which can be worn around your neck or carried in the hand when not actually in use.

If you find that faulty eyesight is not the cause of the aggravating little lines, invest in a small jar of eye or very rich tissue cream. At night, after you have cleaned the face and throat, patted in tissue cream and removed the surplus, smooth richer cream or a special eye cream around your eyes. Leave on while you sleep.

Remember that eyes should be washed at least once a day. Fill an eye-cup with a commercially prepared eye lotion or a weak solution of boric acid and rinse the eyes carefully.

FOUND ONE LONE ANEMONE AT LOWELL—

Two enthusiastic lovers of the woods enjoyed an early supper out of doors, over a camp fire one day last week at Lowell Park, and were showing with much pride one sturdy anemone in blossom. More Than Seven Hundred At "Major Bowes" Performance

There was great interest in the "Major Bowes" performances last evening, given at the South Central school, presented by the teachers and pupils and sponsored by the South Central P. T. A. There were two performances for the attendance was so large the entertainment was divided, one about 6 o'clock and the other given at the conclusion of the first performance, more than 700 in all attending. The committee in charge may justly feel proud of the success of the venture which netted the P. T. A. the tidy sum of $145. It was all "a lot of fun," last evening, and the acts and music went over in fine style, but this all culminated weeks of practice on the children's part, and much hard work on the part of the teachers who all gave of their time so generously.

The hit of the evening was "Major Bowes" himself, impersonated by Forest Merriman, the principal of the school, who gave a true and skillful portrayal of the suave major, both as to voice, mannerisms and personality.

The entire evening was voted a great success.

It was also voted that the Aid buy paint for the Sugar Grove church basement.

'MRS. G. B. S.'

You've seen a thousand and one pictures of bewhiskered George Bernard Shaw, famed Irish dramatist. Well, meet the missus! And take a good look, because a picture of Mrs. G. B. S. is something rare, she having been eclipsed by her noted spouse since their marriage in 1932. Since then, she has quietly been taking care of him, while he has been taking care of the headlines.

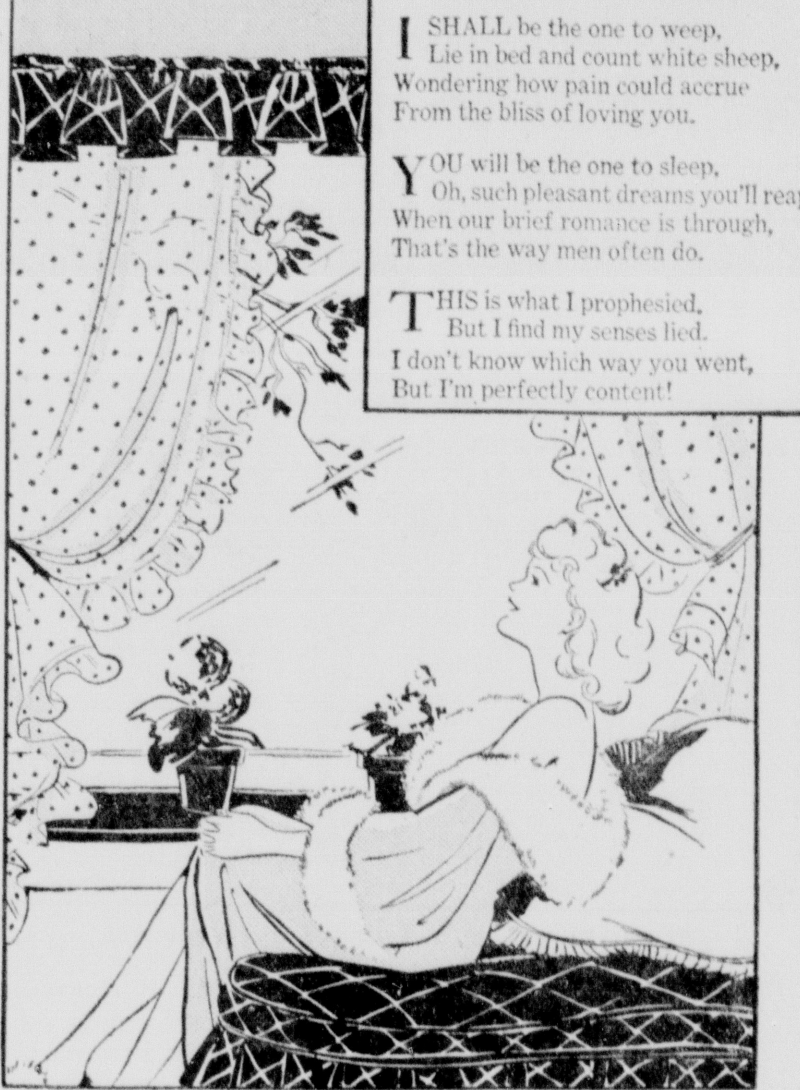

IRONY

By Helen Welshimer

I SHALL be the one to weep,
Lie in bed and count white sheep,
Wondering how pain could accrue
From the bliss of loving you.

YOU will be the one to sleep,
Oh, such pleasant dreams you'll reap
When our brief romance is through,
That's the way men often do.

THIS is what I prophesied,
But I find my senses lied,
I don't know which way you went,
But I'm perfectly content!

LEN SMALL FOR GOVERNOR

Of all the Republican candidates for the nomination for governor of Illinois there is just one man who has proven his ability to govern this state wisely, economically and well, and that man is Len Small of Kankakee.

Of all the candidates for governor there is just one man from downstate who can possibly be elected, and that man is Len Small. If we are to deliver this state out of the hands of the looting Chicago crowd of bi-partisan politicians and back into an economical and honest administration we can do so by supporting and electing Len Small.

Lee County has every reason for giving its vote to Small. During his eight years as governor he was very fair to this county and gave us our full share of paved highways, public buildings, public offices, etc. Lee County realized that at the last general election when Small carried Lee County in the face of the great Democratic landslide. We believe his friends will stand by him again this time because they appreciate his true worth and ability.

MR. HEARST'S ORDER

The national house of representatives made a sort of a half-holiday over the reading of a message from William R. Hearst to his chief editorial writer on the Hearst newspapers in Washington. Representatives did not seem to realize that they only were proving the charge made against them. The copy of the message had been seized by the federal communications commission and had been slipped to the Black investigating committee of the senate, and by the Black committee to a member of the house of representatives.

In other words the lawful private instructions of Mr. Hearst to an employee were seized by government agents and were peddled around the capitol to be used by anyone who desired to put Hearst on the wrack.

The charge against the creation of a federal communications commission was that it would abuse its power to create fear in the hearts of publishers. The charge has been proved. Messages of other publishers have been seized. It would be bad enough if in the course of investigation the administration agents should seize a personal message from the publishers to the representative from his district, if it were a lawful message, and to publish it after the fashion the house published the message of Mr. Hearst to his employee, but to seize all messages conveyed in the course of a business is tyranny.

If the average person would understand what has been done, let him imagine the federal communications commission putting a dictaphone in the store of a Dixon merchant, where his conversations with his employees could be recorded; or in the home of a Dixon business man, where his conversations with his wife could be recorded, and this not because the man is suspected of crime, but merely to use his conversations as a public whip.

Mr. Hearst is accused of nothing. His message to his editorial writer in Washington merely is being used as a public whip by the administration.

The message, which was seized by the communications commission and was peddled to the Black committee and from members of the Black committee to members of the house of representatives and to the floor of the house to make a Roman holiday, told the editorial writer to assail Representative McSwain of South Carolina, chairman of the house committee on military affairs, on his record on military affairs. The message also expressed the Hearst opinion of McSwain as a public servant, either for good measure or as a guide to what his editorial trend should be.

Perhaps that was the coming of a great light to the members of congress. The editorials already long since had appeared taking Mr. McSwain to task. They spoke for themselves. They probably contained all that Editor Hearst had suggested and more. What, then, was out of order in the Hearst proceeding in giving instructions by wire to a subordinate three thousand miles away? What is the great revelation? Do not editors concerned in the same publication talk to each other?
Does not the one in final authority make the ultimate decision?

The most we can make out of it is that by the seizure of the telegram by the federal communications commission and the passing of a copy of it to the Black committee and the handing of a copy by a member of the Black committee to a member of the house of representatives, Representative McSwain discovered that the editorial writer was writing an order of his employer and was not carrying out a personal grudge, and McSwain had leaned to the grudge theory on the ground that once they had lived in the same town or state.

So the house of representatives should take half a day for a holiday to pan Mr. Hearst.
All of which goes to prove that the suspicions given publicly concerning the federal communications commission and its power to wield a club over a timid press are well-grounded.

THE KING'S HORSES

The pomp and circumstance of military life seem to be suffering a deep change these days. The British government, for instance, recently ordered eight of the empire's most famous cavalry regiments to be mechanized, and the walls from army men are piteous to hear.

Such tradition-spangled regiments as Prince Albert's Own Hussars, the 12th Royal Lancers, the First King's Dragoon Guards, and the Queen's Bays are losing their horses. Hereafter they will ride to war—and, what is more to the point, to the parade ground as well
—in armored cars, tanks, and plebeian trucks.

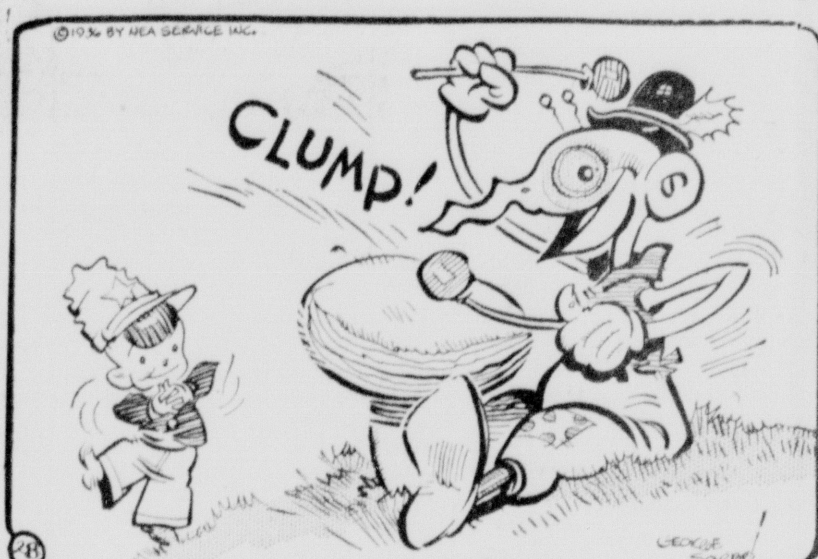

While they will be ever so much more effective as a result, they will also be ever so much less picturesque and romantic.

A plumed warrior on a proud horse is a noble sight.
Put the same warrior inside a greasy tank, or perch him on the springless seat of a 10-ton truck, and he is indistinguishable from the mechanic at the corner garage.

War's trappings are getting sadly tarnished. And altogether, the change is probably an excellent thing
—in more ways than one.

THE TINYMITES

READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE

"The cricket with the violin glanced at wee Goldy with a grin, and said, 'I'm glad to like the music. I have practiced long."

"I never like notes to sound flat,
'cause I am liked by things like that. The way I play all day, tis well the strings are good and strong."

"Now, if you Tinymites will sit right down and rest, I'll play a bit, and also, I will sing a song that you have never heard."

"The music is my very own. I wrote the whole thing all alone. I hope you like the lyrics too, 'cause
I wrote every word."

"Oh, we're all ears," said Scouty.
"Go ahead and stage your little show. If you are good, we all will clap. If not, we'll hiss a bit."

The cricket laughed and snapped, "Don't fret! I never have been hissed at yet. I'm absolutely satisfied my song will make a hit."

And then he started singing, "I am just a funny cricket guy. I strum upon my violin. From note to note I hop."

"I could keep on for aye, no doubt, but all the strings get all tired out. In fact, one day one of the strings cried out at me,
'Please stop.'"

"Oh," Doty cried. "That's where we balk. We all know that a string can't talk. However, 'twas a clever song, so you'll get real applause."

The Tinymites clapped long and loud, and then a hopper joined the crowd. "I'll play my drum," he shouted, "if my cricket friend will pause."

"Okay, grasshopper! Go ahead," the cricket very promptly said. And then the hopper cried, "Just watch me make this mushroom hum."

He beat, and made a funny noise, which entertained the girls and boys. "My goodness," shouted Goldy. "That's a funny looking drum."

(A fat frog makes strange noise come out of a horn in the next story.)

Washington—One of the most amazing situations in this country today is the fact that the Senate has gone proletarian. There is a Democratic and a Republican party up there. And the Republican party is split into two groups, the Progressives who are more New Deal than the Democrats, and the regular Republicans. But over all of them, Democrats, Progressives and Republicans, is a proletarian blanket. It explains the lack of any serious opposition to what Mr. Roosevelt does on the Republican side. What little opposition there is comes from the members of Mr. Roosevelt's own party.

When we say they are all prole-

The exceptions are Senators

Callister of Rhode Island. Both of them are very wealthy men but they would be utterly ineffective in any opposition they attempted if they were minded to attempt any.

Another very rich man is Senator Cousins of Michigan. He has always had a complex against all the rich except himself.

this and that. And to continue in the Senate they had to do it. But although they were looked upon as "reactionaries," as "tools of the interests," as the Democrats insist, they were chafing at the bits.
As one Republican senator told this writer: "Why the fat cows used to assume we worked for them. Well, the worm has turned now. Those babies are in bad.
And I don't mind saying that I am enough of a human being to gea kick out of their predicament.
Frankly, I wish Roosevelt would beat them some more."

Thus, we see the amazing spectacle now of one of their party leaders, one of their angels, Mr.
Silas H. Strawn, making a battle against the Black committee's seizure of his private telegrams.
The press generally, of all shades of opinion, gets indignant. Even the Civil Liberties Union denounces the action. You would think the Senate Republicans would seize upon this as a god issue. But they don't. Secretly, they would like to see Silas get into trouble.
Silas has been too high-handed with them in the past, it seems.
And it develops that although they are Republican senators, at heart they have the same class consciousness as the taxi-driver.

With this feeling goes a secret admiration for Mr. Roosevelt who has aroused the class consciousness, who has inveighed against the gentlemen in "well-stocked clubs."

The A.A.A.

By NEIL CAROTHERS
Director, College of Business Administration,
Lehigh University

In a recent article this writer referred to the grievous error behind the government's so-called farm policy—the notion that if there is something unhappy in agriculture the government must dash in and fix it. It was pointed out that
(1) it is not a government job
in the first place and (2) government cannot help the situation in the second place.

With all its faults our economic system is the only one we have. It depends on freedom of enterprise and competition. If left alone it automatically keeps all the groups of producers in the best possible balance even in depression. When one branch gets out of line competitive forces ruthlessly correct the condition. If too much is produced, prices fall mercilessly. If there are too many producers, some are forced out. It is a harsh system, but it keeps the world alive. When government steps in to protect some one group against the operation of these forces, it is destroying the entire economic system. It throws the whole system out of balance. It not only makes the situation worse, but does it at the expense of all the other groups.
Farming is, like all other private business, rather hazardous. When things break right the farmers make enormous profits. When things go wrong, they suffer severely. The (Address questions to the author, care of this newspaper)

World War brought fabulous profits to the farmers. The farmers intensified production, speculated wildly in farm land, and mortgaged themselves to the hilt. The post-war slump pinched them badly. Certain improvements in farm methods added to the pressure. Certain developments in other countries reduced their markets.
And then the depression deflated the whole swollen farm structure.

The farmers faced only what all other groups faced—depressed prices and heavy liquidation. There was no more reason to tax the people to raise prices for farmers than for silk mills, lawyers, copper producers, railroads, or certified public accountants. You may not know it, but all the talk about farm parity and price equalization is economic nonsense.

But the farmers could not "take it."
They demanded that government rescue them at the expense of every other group suffering from depression, and a government afraid of the farm vote tried to do it, under both Hoover and Roosevelt. Every measure, from the Farm Board to the idiotic potato law, that tried to raise farm prices artificially hurt the farmers, hurt recovery, and hurt the country. The A.A.A. reduced production, increased unemployment, increased the deficit, and raised the cost of living. It seems probable that it actually lowered farm incomes. By the time the Supreme Court threw out the whole thing it had become a morbid interference with the economic life of the country, not knowing where it was going or what it was doing. But it was illustrating beautifully the

THREE KILLED WHEN FREIGHT HITS EXPRESS

Fast Train Speeding Miles an Hour Is Sideswiped

Greensburg, Pa., Mar. 28—(AP)—
The fast Philadelphia Express of the Pennsylvania railroad, rounding a curve in a driving rain, sideswiped a freight train near Manor yesterday, killing three trainmen and injuring one.

The dead were E. F. Snyder of Altoona, engineer on the first locomotive of a doubleheader pulling the big passenger train; George Kuhn of Ruffsdales, engineer on the second locomotive and Roy Mitchell, 51, of Latrobe, fireman on the second engine.

Clair N. Grove of Altoona, fireman, was scalded about the feet.

None of the 78 passengers was injured except for bruises.
The wreck occurred just east of the station at Manor, a farm village ten miles from Greensburg.
Both locomotives, two day coaches,
two baggage cars and one sleeper were derailed.

Railroad officials at Pittsburgh said the cause of the wreck was undetermined but that the flood of last week was not a factor. They explained the Manor section was bothered by the high water.

Witnesses at the scene, among them Fireman Grove, said the wreck was caused when two cars on the passing freight train buckled and were thrown against the side of the express, rushing ahead at 65 miles an hour.

Just at the moment the Minnesota river, a raging torrent swelled by heavy rains and the thaw, ripped a huge gap in this dike, the photographer, only a few feet away, snapped the remarkable scene. The break in the dike, which is normally 20 feet above the water level, threatened North Mankato, Minn., with a serious flood, as it was feared the river would surge through a new channel.

EDITORIAL—IMAGINATION

By Bob Wasson

Man can be divided into three parts, the imagination, the rest of the brain and the body. The relation of these three to each other can be compared to a large firm.

The imagination is the controlling interest, the brain is the department head and the body is the laborer.

The imagination gets the idea and develops it and the brain makes the body carry it out.

It is then evident that the imagination is the nucleus of the human body. It is the real, you, it is the spirit, the immortal part of the body. The imagination is given to the baby at the start of life to help it gain its aims.

The real aim of the imagination in most cases will be to gain a greater compound of knowledge. This goal is illimitable, making life always interesting. Each man's separate goal is never reached. But the race of mankind often reaches a goal.

Each man makes for himself, either consciously or otherwise a set of ethical rules which are to him a God, and which the body is his shrine in which to worship them. A crime is not really a crime if the person has obeyed his laws, but if he disobeys these laws, he destroys his trust in himself.

Through the imagination, man can make himself immortal. He can live in an ideal world. He can make a heaven on earth. He who can control his imagination can control the universe.

CONTEST

The boys of the Ag department have been working on judging grains and corn. Last Saturday they went to Rochelle and entered a contest with 23 other schools. Our school placed in the upper half of the schools in both grain and corn.

The following boys were on the teams: Robert Natter, John Schafer, Lloyd Buckner, Wesley Herwig, Gerald Emmert, Kenneth Sandrock, Raymond Patterson, Marvin Brown, Howard Greenfield and Wilbur Hartzel. Robert Natter brought home a fifth place ribbon in corn judging. A poultry team was not entered because the school does not have the equipment to prepare a team. Next year we hope to have the equipment so we will have a better chance in the contest.

Debate Townsend Plan

The debate club will debate on the Townsend plan this week. The affirmative speakers are Bob Wasson and Earl Blekking. Florence Blekking and Dave Studebaker will speak on the negative side. This is preliminary work for the debate which will be given before the civics class.

Track Meets

The track team is starting work in earnest. There are two prospective meets, at Urbana and at Prophetstown, Ralph Hansen established three records in running last year at Prophetstown. The 50 yard dash he ran in 5.6 seconds, the 100 yard dash in 10.4 and the 220 yard dash in 23.2 seconds. We have great hopes for our team this year and wish them lots of luck.

On April 17 there will be a track meet at Franklin Grove with the track team of Mahomet. They have a strong team and will no doubt give us some keen competition. The coach of this team is Mr. Johnson, who is a graduate of Franklin Grove high school.

Seventeen out of the school enrollment of 71 are on this honor roll. This is nearly a quarter of the total high school with an average of Bx or above. We think that's a pretty fair record but there are still many persons who if they worked a little harder, would be on the honor roll. Lots of students think that being on the honor roll is an empty distinction, for the only thing they receive is having their names mentioned. There is more to it than that though. You get the satisfaction of knowing that you have done some good work and laid a sound basis for further knowledge.

Several interesting facts present themselves in looking over the honor roll. Either Dave has a good influence on Marvin or Marvin on Dave, for both made the honor roll. Surroundings must be good back there for getting knowledge.

In high school there are four Millers, all are girls, all are in different years and all made the honor roll. The name Miller must have some power in it.

The Home Economic class has been working diligently on note books, which also includes work on budgeting. We are now working on a budget for ourselves. We take for a basis a salary of $125 per month. We are doing this to see how much we can save for further education.

Home Ec Club

The Home Economics club had a meeting Tuesday afternoon. Mrs. Hinkle of Dixon Beauty shop gave us a talk on hair dressing and the care of the hair and skin. Demonstrations of permanent and finger waves were given with two of the girls. This morning they looked very nice.

Merrill has lived here all his life, is a good clean honorable upright young man. This is his first venture in the business world, and we join with his many friends in wishing him success. It is always gratifying to have any young person remain in the home town and conduct a business. We know that Merrill will conduct a good clean orderly pool room which will make it fine for those who enjoy a game of pool or billiards.

Honor Missionaries

The following item was received by mail Thursday morning. We would have been glad to have had it early, but we thank the sender just the same. It was very thoughtful.

Mrs. Edward Ventler, near Reynolds, entertained a group of ladies at a one o'clock luncheon at her home Thursday in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Miller, missionaries to India. The ladies were friends and classmates of Mrs. Miller, the former Mae Wolf, who spent her early girlhood in the community around Ashton and Franklin Grove.

After the delicious luncheon the afternoon was spent in visiting, looking over old snapshots, and doing needlework. Those present enjoyed very much listening to Mr. and Mrs. Miller tell of customs and happenings in far away India. The guests were Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Miller and daughter Frances, Mrs. Jay Miller of Franklin Grove; Rev. P. O. Bailey, Mrs. Carson Cross, Mrs. Wallace Clover, Mrs. Edward Kersten, Mrs. Orno Kersten, Mrs. Roy Wagner, Mrs. William Henert, Mrs. Lloyd Attig, Mrs. Wesley Attig and Mrs. Frank Kersten and daughter Lois. Mrs. Ventler will be remembered by the Franklin Grove folks as June Attig who lived with her parents in this community and attended the local school.

W. C. T. U. NOTES

Our aim as a W. C. T. U. is to rule out Alcohol through Education and help make a sober nation. The best place to begin is with youth. Mary B. Ervin says "Enlist the children today and help make America better, greater and more beautiful than it was transmitted to us."

TIGERS ENJOY BEST OUTLOOK OF '36 SEASON

Tiger Cages Of The Other Teams Are Inadequate

Miami, Fla., March 28—(AP)—It looks like the Tigers for the third straight year in the American league flag race.

American league hunters, headed by Tom Yawkey of Boston, have spent a half million dollars repairing their fences and enlarging their Tiger cages, but still they don't seem strong enough to resist the Tiger from Detroit.

The big Tiger man, Mickey Cochran, apparently has assembled his strongest team for the big raid in the baseball jungles. With Al Simmons plugging up the outfield and fine rookies apparently ready to lend great strength to the left side of the infield, Mickey has a club without a glaring weakness.

Despite their poor start in spring exhibition games, the star studded Boston Red Sox undoubtedly rate as the logical rivals of the Bengal crew with the New York Yankees and Cleveland Indians, also dangerous. The second division seems probable for the other four clubs—St. Louis, Chicago, Washington and the hapless Philadelphia Athletics.

Prospects Given

Here's how they line up at the starting line:

Detroit: Approximately the same team as 1935 except for Simmons and a fine assortment of dazzling who give every promise of dazzling the league. Simmons is bound to aid the Tiger attack. Even last year when his batting average fell to a new low of .267 with the White Sox, he drove in more runs than his predecessor, Joe-Joe White, of the Tiger outfield. Pitching will be stronger. Spirit is running higher than ever.

Boston: Harmony is the big question. If Joe Cronin's lineup of stars dig in and harmonize, the Red Sox will prove tough with a batting order like this: Almada, Cramer, Manush, Foxvix, Mronin, McNair, Werber aid Rick Ferrell, each a star capable of breaking up a ball game. Pitching should be good enough with Grove, R. Ferrell, Ostermueler, Marcum and five others.

New York: The Yankees, despite the infusion of new blood, appear to be cracking up. Second base is the big question as Tony Lazzeri isn't expected to last out a full season. Frank Crosetti's knee also is a question mark. The Yanks should have better pitching and plenty of power, but you can't help but detect cracking signs at too many places.

Indians Question Mark

Cleveland: Here's the club that has a chance of upsetting the apple cart. Potentially, the Indians have everything except a sure catcher. They are riding on the wave of a new spirit under Steve O'Neill. If they can overcome their catching problem and their reputation as a poor road club, the Indians will be very troublesome.

St. Louis: Shrewd Rogers Hornsby expects fifth place, and that looks like the limit for the Browns. Pitching is the doubtful quality. The Browns rate as the giant killers of the circuit.

Chicago: Good pitching but not much else. Fred the great White Sox fan of Chicago, again will probably write down: "Just another year for the White Sox."

Washington: Bucky Harris has a flock of youngsters who may surprise. They are strictly the dark horses of the league. They may get hot, or they may get cold. You can't tell a thing about them.

Philadelphia: It's raining again for Connie Mack. Down here in the grapefruit belt, the Athletics are odd-on "favorites" to stay in the cellar.

Marse Joe Meets Rookie Joe

A bat ballhooped as one of the most powerful to come up to the majors in years is shown here being given the once-over by its owner, Joe DiMaggio, left, Yankee rookie outfielder obtained from San Francisco, and Joe McCarthy, manager of the New York squad. On his first drill with the American League team at St. Petersburg, DiMaggio hit three balls that would have carried over most of the league park walls.

CUBS' MURDERERS' ROW ALL SET

Ready to strike fear into the hearts of National League pitchers, this "murderers' row" of the Chicago Cubs is shaping up in fine style in the west. The lineup here shows how the Cubs' tentative Big Four will bat during the season — at the plate is Augie Galan, outfielder. In the rear, front to back, are Chuck Klein, outfielder; Gabby Hartnett, catcher; Frank Demaree, outfielder.

What Candidates For Governorship Of Illinois Said

By The Associated Press

Otis F. Glenn, seeking the Republican nomination for United States Senator, an office he formerly held, at Chicago: "When I was in the senate I stood against official oppressions and tyrannies. The preservation of civil liberty is as vital today as when the government was founded."

William E. Hull, seeking the Republican nomination for United States Senator, at Chicago: "I do not say Mr. Roosevelt wants to tax the churches, but his spending policies make it impossible for him to escape this action long."

Orville J. Taylor, a Chicagoan, seeking the Republican nomination for United States Senator, at Chicago: "Chicago will be sold down river unless steps are taken to halt political deals. I will have substantial support from downstate citizens who realize Chicago is entitled to one senator this year, and that a Chicago Republican stands the best chance of winning."

C. Wayland Brooks, seeking the Republican nomination for governor, at Rock Island: "In three years 228,000 employees have been added to the federal payroll. If you are looking for prosperity it is in Washington hotels, apartments and boarding houses."

Largest Fleet Is Awaiting Gun In Great Yacht Race

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 28.—(AP)—The largest fleet entered in the St. Petersburg-Havana yacht race during its seven-year history today awaited the starting gun.

Ahead of the 22 fleet craft lay more than 280 miles of open sea, with the finish line at Morro Castle in Havana's harbor.

Uncertain weather conditions at this time of year provide an element of danger in the race, and more than one starter has limped into port days late.

The vessels range in size from the stately 71-foot ketch Valmarie, owned by Yafim Makarov of Oyster Bay, L. I., first to finish last year, to the tiny 30-foot cutter Gamecock, entered by Wirth Monroe of Miami.

Records in Danger As College Track, Field Men Gather

Naperville, Ill., March 28.—(AP)—Existing records in five events were threatened as Illinois intercollegiate conference trackmen prepared for the sixth annual indoor championships in Mercer fieldhouse of North Central College today.

Teams from North Central, champion for the past three years, Bradley, State Normal, Illinois Wesleyan, Elmhurst, Western Teachers, St. Viator, Northern Teachers, Wheaton, Southern Teachers and Augustana were entered.

Season performances indicated marks in the high hurdles, 440 yard run, pole vault, shot put and 880 yard run might fall.

Local Organization For Soil Projects Has Been Completed

Springfield, Ill., March 28.—(AP)—The community and county organization for supervision of the new federal soil conservation program in Illinois was completed today, the initial step in putting the plan in operation in the state.

Community committees, the chairman of which will serve as the board in charge of the county program, were elected before the two-day conference adjourned.

The Illinois set-up was arranged by temporary committees of four members from each county and officials of the federal department of agriculture and the extension service of the state college of agriculture at Urbana.

Plans were also made by which organization and administration of the program replacing the invalidated AAA will be co-ordinated and supervised with Washington activities through a state committee comprised largely of farmers.

Local meetings throughout the state will follow the conference here.

It is estimated that motorists of the United States have paid more than $5,318,615,856 in state and Federal gasoline taxes since taxation of motor fuel to finance highways was inaugurated by Oregon in 1919.

Fifty-four per cent of new car sales, and almost three-fifths of used car transactions, involve installment financing.

At present, 215 cities have authorized mail service.

TOURNEY GRIND WILL CONTINUE UNTIL APRIL 14

Routine Business Disposed Of By ABC Today

Indianapolis, March 28.—(AP)—Routine business disposed of, the American Bowling Congress settled down today for a steady grind of competitive play until the tournament winds up on April 14.

Among the highly rated teams who will be out to better the 3,065 high of Pabst Blue Ribbon of New York are Haberle Derby Ale of Syracuse, N. Y., seventh place winners last year, and Shallicross Inks of Philadelphia. Another ranking five-man team is the Budweiser crew of St. Louis who placed third in the 1935 meet.

New York was selected as the 1937 tournament city by delegates yesterday. Manhattan has never staged an A. B. C. meet. Charles W. Cushing of Peoria, Ill., was elevated to the presidency, succeeding A. E. Jankowsky of Detroit. Elmer H. Baumgarten of Milwaukee and Frank Padelou of Chicago were re-elected secretary and treasurer, respectively.

Dr. Dix Dentists of Detroit moved into fourth place in the five-man division with a snappy 2,914 series. The team shot a parting 1,022.

FOUR NATIONAL TRACK ACES IN TEXAS RELAYS

Austin, Texas, March 28.—(AP)—Four nationally known trackmen tested their speed and endurance in the Texas relays today in the start of an outdoor campaign they hope will lead to the Olympic games at Berlin.

Among the nearly 500 college performers here for the first major outdoor meet of the season, were Sam Allen, Oklahoma Baptist's ace hurdler; Archie Ramani, national intercollegiate mile champion from the Emporia, Kas, Teachers College; Floyd Luckner, intercollegiate two-mile champion from the University of Oklahoma, and Glen (Slats) Hardin, holder of the world record in the 400 meter hurdles.

Hardin, former Louisiana State University ace, was ineligible to compete in the college events, but was entered in a special race. Lochner and Romani were to match speeds in the university two-mile relay, both running anchor position.

Jay Berwanger, the "one man football team" from the University of Chicago, was entered in six events, the 100-yard dash, shot put, javelin and discus throws, broadjump, mile run. In addition he was a member of the half mile relay team.

Picard, Mangrum Clash For North, South Open Title

Pinehurst, N. C., March 28.—(AP)—A winner of many tournaments, Henry Picard of Hershey, Pa., and an unattached professional seeking his first major victory, Ray Mangrum of Pittsburgh, played off over the 18 hole route today for the $1,000 first prize of the North and South open championship.

Picard, winner of the Charleston open last week, and Mangrum, who jumped into the lead in the second round Wednesday with a scintillating 68—the best 18-hole score of the tournament—turned in 288's to tie for first and second prize money in the $4,000 event yesterday.

A stroke behind the leaders was Horton Smith of Oak Park, Ill., with 289, winning third prize of $500. Tony Manero of Greensboro, N. C., won the $400 fourth prize with 292. Harry Cooper of Chicago and Vic Ghezzi of Deal, N. J., with 293's, getting $250 each.

Peggy Wattles Is Golf Champion

Augusta, Ga., March 28.—(AP)—Buffalo's Peggy Wattles held the Augusta women's invitational golf title today after overcoming a good field and the hazards of the difficult hill course of the Augusta County club. Miss Wattles took the championship yesterday by defeating Jane Cothran, of Greenville, S. C., two and one.

It is estimated that the year 1936 will find about 43 per cent more motor vehicles traveling the roads of the United States than there are at present.

There is approximately one mile of road to every square mile of territory in the United States, exclusively of city streets.

Automotive service building construction in 1935 represented 69 per cent of all non-residential building, its cost being 8.6 per cent of the total.

Cuts to Cut Off Weight

Gabby Hartnett, Chicago Cubs catcher, voted most valuable player in the National League last year, showed up at the Bruins' Catalina Island training camp a bit overweight. So the garrulous one donned a rubber shirt and went through a strenuous conditioning session. Here he is shown taking a lusty cut at a fast one to help him cut off the avoirdupois.

NEWS FROM BASEBALL CAMPS

Associated Press Sports Writers Tell of Activities of Major League Stars and Rookies.

Red Ruffing went through his first official workout on Huggins Field yesterday.

Clearwater—Van Mungo, the number 1 man of the Brooklyn Dodgers mound staff, says he wants to pitch more than 50 games this season. Casey Stengel says, "that, gentlemen, is a great deal of work."

New Orleans—Sam Leslie, Terry's understudy at first base, was near his old home town of Pascagoula when the Giants played the Atlanta Crackers at Gulfport, Miss., yesterday. A delegation from the home town presented him a wrist watch, whereupon Sambo stepped to the plate and fouled out.

Orlando—The Senators were back in their home training camp today to play the Browns. Jesse Hill, rising outfield star, was expected to be back in the lineup. Catcher Cliff Bolton's bruised foot has healed.

Tampa—The Cubs clash with the Cincinnati Reds today with Charley Root and Mike Kowalik assigned to divide the pitching.

San Antonio—Tired of poor opposition for his White Sox Manager Jimmy Dykes looked forward to today's game with Pittsburgh, the first of 13 straight tilts with the Bucs. Whitehead's performance probably will determine whether he is assigned to the season opener against the Tigers.

The exodus is expected to start Monday when Chet Laabs and Rudy York, infielders, probably will join the Milwaukee club at Lake Wales. Subsequent departures may include Buddy Bates and Chick Morgan, outfielders, and Don French, Joe Hare, Bill Phebus and Johnny Merena, pitchers.

San Antonio—President Bill Benavenger of the Pirates told a civic club yesterday he hoped to make San Antonio the Corsairs training site again next spring. Swift and Hoyt are scheduled for mound duty today in the first game of the long series with the White Sox.

New Orleans—Although the Indians have defeated the Giants three times so far this year, they aren't taking Terry's men too lightly. Manager Steve O'Neill has selected Oral Hildebrand and Al Milnar to pitch today in the first of two week-end games that precede the annual spring barnstorming trip.

St. Petersburg—The Bees, lipped by the Yankees three times in a row plan to use Danny MacFayden, Ray Benze and Ken Chitwood on the mound today in an attempt to stop the McCarthymen.

Tampa—Charley Grimm of the Cubs says "I see no reason why we shouldn't win the next World Series." Derringer and Brennan were scheduled to perform on the mound for the Reds today.

Atlanta, Ga.—The Athletics were here today to play the Crackers, having quit Florida's borders after a 15-3 victory over Jacksonville yesterday.

Veteran Foursome To Defend N. C. I. Title At DeKalb Meet

Four veterans will compose Dixon high school's golf foursome on the links this spring. Coach C. B. Lindell said Friday, and chances for a banner season are the brightest in years.

Captaining the links aggregation will be veteran Dick Durkes who shoots one of the most brilliant games produced by any golfer in this community. He consistently cracks 70 on the Plum Hollow and Country club courses here and has attained remarkable scores on much more difficult links in other communities. With Durkes as a nucleus the Purple and White stickmen expect to repeat their 1935 N. C. I. conference title win, in the DeKalb meet late in May.

All Shoot Low Scores

Other members of the foursome are all veterans, are Darrell Reis, Robert Krug, and Elwin Martin, the latter being ineligible last season, but a veteran golfer in every respect. All shoot in the low 70's.

Six meets are planned though no definite dates have yet been drawn up. Two meets are being arranged with Freeport, and possibly two with Rockford. Matches with Sterling Township, and DeKalb high schools are also being planned.

The golf campaign will begin here late in April about the time the Dixon courses open their summer seasons.

OLYMPIC CAGE TEAMS CHOSEN THIS EVENING

New York, March 28.—(AP)—Eight of the ten teams that will compete in the final Olympic basketball tryouts in Madison Square Garden beginning April 3 will have been decided tonight.

With five teams already having won places in the finals, Kansas University and Utah State, tied up in a two-out-of-three series, meet in the deciding game between the district 7 and 8 winners while Niagara and Temple, winners of districts 1 and 2, clash in a single game at Philadelphia. The Y. M. C. A. entrant will be decided in a contest at Peoria, Ill., between Wilmerding, Pa., and Denver.

In games last night, the Arkansas Razorbacks entered the finals by scoring their second straight triumph over Western Kentucky Teachers, 39-30. De Paul of Chicago defeated Minnesota for the second straight time 33-27 to go into the finals.

The University of Washington, the McPherson (Kan.) Refiners and the Hollywood, Calif., Universals are the other certain entries.

A survey made by the U. S. Department of Labor indicates that, next to private garages, service stations made up most of the automotive service buildings constructed in 1935.

More than 9000 bills directly affecting highway use were introduced in state legislatures in 1935, and 1200 became law.

BOSTWICK TRAINS AINTREE ENTRY

George H. (Pete) Bostwick, United States gentleman jockey, again is going to try the English Grand National steeplechase at Aintree with Castle Irwell. Bostwick, shown above on the horse during a workout in England, came a cropper near the finish of that British classic last year, after being well in front.

RUPTURE RELIEF

Local Druggist Provides Special Service.

Men, women and children who are ruptured and wear trusses find a haven of relief in the service provided by the STERLING PHARMACY, located at 106 Galena Ave.

Recognizing the fact that maximum comfort and good results depend upon having the right type of truss properly fitted to the individual a special department was established with an expert truss fitter in charge and with modern equipment for handling all cases.

Modern students of truss fitting have found that there is frequently a difference between the actual point of rupture and the point where it seems to be. This difference may be very slight but unless it is understood and properly provided for in fitting the truss much needless suffering and danger of possibly serious consequences results.

STERLING PHARMACY is the exclusive representative in this city of the famous Akron Sponge Rubber Pad Trusses and in their work of truss fitting have at their call the knowledge and skill of the Akron Company's expert fitters. Truss wearers are not only assured of a proper fitting but also have the benefit of continued service by dealing with the STERLING PHARMACY, who are an established permanent business in this city.

NEWS of the CHURCHES

LENTEN SERVICES.

The last of the Lenten services was held last night in the Methodist Episcopal church and a splendid audience came out to hear the preacher. Rev. W. W. Marshall presided. After a song service by the choir, Dr. Young read the scripture from John 16 and led in prayer. Dr. Goff brought the message on "Unfinished Christians."

His text was: "I have many things to say unto you but ye cannot bear them now." He said: "This text reveals to us the heart of Jesus and His deep yearning after His disciples and their growth in Christian grace. He was giving them intensive training but they were not strong enough to bear it at that time in full. They were still unfinished. A man visited Chicago some years ago. He had never been there before and on his return, he was asked how he liked it. 'I don't like it. It seems to me they will never get it done.' The most unsightly thing in the world is an unfinished building. It is nice to think about the completed structure. So many men are incomplete. The pessimist is blue, the traitor is yellow, the Communist is red. Are all the Christians graces exercised in this? No. There is much land yet to be possessed. Today we are threatened with inverted hypocrisy in which we try to make ourselves worse than we really are. All Christians need to grow in grace. The scripture shows us its great men but none of them were perfect. We are all mosaics of Christianity—bright in patches. Are we Christians because of a day in which we made decision to follow Christ or because we follow a certain creed, or because we refrain from certain diversions? We are all cross sections of life. Are we finished? If we are we ought to be taken home to Heaven for that is where we belong. You judge a ship by the port to which she is being steered and you judge a character by the way he is travelling. Are you making progress in the direction of Christ? Remember your Christian life is yet incomplete but if you are going in the right direction then Christ is your companion and guide and the day of perfection will dawn when we arrive in His presence.

Dr. Goff closed with the benediction this splendid series of meetings.

TRAFFIC TIPS

by the NATIONAL SAFETY COUNCIL

Illinois Division of Highways Cooperating.

"SEVEN SINS OF TRAFFIC." Recently we asked an old-time commercial driver, who had driven for eighteen years under all sorts of traffic and weather conditions, to list the outstanding causes of highway accidents, based on his observations.

Here are the Seven Deadly Sins of Traffic, as he sees them:

1. Inattention; failure to heed the work at hand.
2. Excessive speed which he says is an element in nearly all serious crashes.
3. Traffic violations. Law-abiding drivers have a right to depend on observance of traffic rules by others.
4. Intoxication. The drinking driver is a constant menace and the problem has become more serious since repeal.
5. The road hog. He endangers everybody and belongs in jail.
6. Unfitness for driving. Either mental or physical disabilities tend to destroy one's sense of alertness.
7. Failure to keep car in safe condition. Frequent inspection is the best protection.

CHICKEN THIEF CLASSED GRAVE PUBLIC ENEMY

Crime Drive Will Be Centered on First Offense Cases

Springfield, Ill., March 28.—(AP)—The youth who steals a few chickens, either for the thrill of defying the law or for a few dollars revenue, today was listed as a dangerous potential public enemy.

He was described in that manner at the third annual crime conference yesterday as ten speakers said he was the root of the present large-scale rural crime which last year exacted a toll of livestock worth more than the loot from the state's banks.

As a result he and his champion or urban districts who first steals an automobile "for a joyride" will be the objects of an extensive drive during the next year with all law enforcement agencies pledged to put an end to his activities.

To Curb Youth

Means suggested for curbing the criminal at the time of his first crime before he has had time to gain confidence and experience were suggested and endorsed included education, extension of 4-H club work for farm boys, and for the youths who have committed misdeeds proper punishment without leniency because of the criminal's age.

The pledge to support the state's drive on rural crime was unanimously approved by more than 1,000 persons at the conference called by Governor Horner. The representatives of every branch of law enforcement also adopted resolutions calling for changes in statutes and constitutional provisions governing police and crime.

One resolution was in support of revision of the state criminal code as drafted by the Illinois Bar Association. Others called for legislative action to increase sheriffs' salaries, permit sheriffs to succeed themselves, and extend the state bureau of identification and highway police.

She will be accompanied by her son and his wife.

The recreation department sponsored the annual party given Thursday night for the employees and patients who play on the baseball and basketball teams. Two exciting basketball games were played after which refreshments were served. The refreshments consisted of ice cream, cookies, sandwiches and coffee.

Mr. and Mrs. Tilden O'Connor are the proud parents of a baby boy born last Monday night at their home in Oneida.

Germany has 4703 daily newspapers, 976 of which are party organs. The largest circulation is 560,000 and the smallest is 55.

Relatives and friends were shocked to learn of the death of Fred Hill, a former resident of the Bend. He was struck by an automobile near his home Wednesday evening which resulted in his death.

TRIBE STARVING INDIAN CHARGES; BEING PUNISHED

Navajo Councilman Accuses Secretary of Interior Ickes

A Navajo Indian councilman, returning to his tribe near Gallup, N. M., after an interview with New Deal officials in Washington, stopped in Chicago yesterday long enough to blame Secretary of the Interior Harold L. Ickes and John B. Collier, commissioner of Indian affairs, for starvation conditions among his 44,000 tribesmen. He is Jacob C. Morgan, 56 years old, full blooded Navajo, a graduate of Hampton Institute in Virginia.

Morgan said the chief industry of his people is sheep raising, marketing and wool blanket making.

My people have thrived at this business for centuries," Morgan said. "The reservation is 25,000 square miles, yet less than one-third of the area is fit for grazing. Conditions were fine until the Wheeler-Howard act was passed by congress in 1934."

All Property Made Common.

This act, sponsored by Collier and the American Civil Liberties union, Morgan said, provided that the Navajo should be segregated from other races and that all Navajo property should be the common property of the tribe.

"The act could not become effective, however, without a favorable vote from the tribe," Morgan said. "The Navajo voted it down, and as punishment for our failure to do as the Washington administration wished, we are now suffering."

Shortly after defeat of the act by the Navajo, Secretary Ickes ordered the tribe to reduce the number of its sheep in the interest of the New Deal's soil erosion program, Morgan went on.

"Prior to that time our tribe had 1,500,000 head of sheep," he said.

Cheated of Federal Bounty.

"Now we have less than 600,000. The reduction program was introduced by an agreement between the tribe and Collier whereby the Navajo were to sell a number of their flocks to traders and in return were to receive a bounty for each sheep."

"The Navajo sold many of their sheep at $2 a head and sat down to await the bounty. It has never arrived and my tribesmen have had to buy back their sheep at $10 a head in order to eat."

"Since the soil erosion program started the government has taken over part of our land, in violation of the treaty of 1868, has fenced it off and has placed 3,500 head of government owned cattle on it. One grazing cow is equivalent to six grazing sheep. All of our demands were flatly denied in Washington. Since the government will not stop the sheep reduction program, I must return to my people to determine future action."

News of The Past Week

Associated Press Summarizes Outstanding Events of the Past Seven Days

By DEVIN FRANCIS
Associated Press Staff Writer
Security and Politics

Cast this week in among the unusually turbulent events of the election year was a depression-born idea for human security—Townsendism.

The scheme for paying $200 a month for life to every person turning age 60 figured in three developments which, to the layman, bulked large in the pre-convention political pattern now being woven.

Dr. Francis E. Townsend, head of the Old Age Revolving Pensions, Ltd., announced he felt personally friendly toward Senator Borah; Robert E. Clements, co-founder of the movement, was lost to the cause by resignation; Congress started an inquiry into Townsendism, particularly into its war chest.

Tongues wagged in political circles. It was an open secret that the Republican command was worried. Borah, intent on obtaining the Republican presidential nomination, made a particularly slashing attack on corporate interests, and the old guard, widening the breach between the party's liberals and conservatives.

A Working Pension

Borah was "glad" to learn of Dr. Townsend's attitude. Generalissimo Farley of the Democrats saw fit to disavow any connection between the New Deal and Upton Sinclair's "Epic" movement in California only a few months ago. Chairman Fletcher of the Republicans, in the nature of things, could hardly avoid himself of that privilege in respect to Townsendism.

Borah appeared vexed by the disinclination of Gov. Alf Landon of Kansas to enter any of the presidential primaries. Landon smilingly bided his time. He observed that Republican harmony was more important than an individual's aspirations. But his California supporters put a Landon ticket in the field for the May 5 primary. Col. Frank Knox resumed his attack on the Democratic administration.

Except for a pronouncement by Roosevelt at Winter Park, Fla., Democratic politics were somewhat publicly. Accepting an honorary degree from Rollins College, the President pictured critics of the New Deal as motivated by "group interests" instead of by the national welfare. If Farley was worried by a three-way projected investigation of relief expenditures, he did not show it.

Shades of Hegel

Politics of another complexion created headlines from abroad. Premier Mussolini took the final step in creating his "totalitarian" Italian state, first announced in 1933. He replaced his rubber-stamp Chamber of Deputies with an equally amenable "Chamber of Fascists and Corporations," and abolished large private industries. War is coming, he reiterated.

Mussolini's saber-rattling was an overtone to anticlimax in the Rhineland crisis. Germany's Hitler rejected the ambitious plan of the other Locarno powers to insure peace, including partial demilitarization of the reoccupied Rhineland. The war scare was over, but endless months of bickering lay ahead. France and Great Britain felt out over the Locarno program, but commentators expected them to kiss and make up.

The United States, France and Great Britain closed the fiasco of the London "disarmament" conference by signing an agreement for exchange of information on building plans. Our state department agreed, too, to observe parity with Britain. Italy would sign nothing until sanctions were lifted. Japan already had withdrawn from the conference.

Taxation reduced consumption of beer in Vienna from 3,550,000 gallons in May, 1931, to 2,484,000 gallons in

MT. MORRIS

By MRS. PAULINE YOE

MT. MORRIS—The Mount Morris high school fared exceptionally well in the District Speech Contest held last week in the Northern Illinois State Teachers' College in DeKalb, when Esther Kretzinger placed first, both in Dramatic Declamation and Verse Reading. This, following her success in the same events at the Sub-District meet held last week in Mount Morris, makes her eligible for the state contest. This is to be held during the last week in April at the University of Illinois in Champaign.

The local production of "Submerged" narrowly missed placing among the first three among the one-act plays, which would have made them also eligible for the Champaign trip. The boys who made up the cast gave fine characterizations and are to be commended for their excellent efforts. The members of the cast were Joe Ritson, Clarence Tracy, Dale Hendricks, Jim Bruner, Fred Drexler, and Melvin Priller and were directed by Miss Nellie Bishop.

Because of her enviable record in musical circles, it is only fitting that Mount Morris should be selected as one of the centers for the Sub-District Music Contest, which is to be sponsored by the high school, and the events for which will be held in the Lutheran church. Ten schools of northern Illinois will be represented by vocal and instrumental soloists, and by the high clubs and orchestras from these schools.

In the vocal solos, which are to be held in the morning, Byron, Polo, Winnebago and Mount Morris will have full representation by both boys and girls, while Ashton, Forreston, Franklin Grove, Leaf River, and Stillman Valley will also send representatives. Those who have attended these contests in the past, will be sure to be on hand, as these schools have produced some especially fine voices.

The afternoon session will be given over to the instrumental music, and winners among all the groups will be sent to the district contest where further eliminations will be made, before sending the best ones to Champaign for the competition for state honors.

Between one hundred and fifty and two hundred children of the grade and high school were vaccinated against scarlet fever, yesterday morning, in a continuation of the immunization program which the local Parents-Teachers Association has sponsored so successfully. The Doctors Dumont, Price and Stengel were busy the entire morning. Should there be any after care necessary for some of the children, the parents are asked to send them promptly to their family physicians.

Because of the religious activities of Holy Week, the April meeting of the American Legion Auxiliary is to be moved up one week, and will be held on Tuesday evening in the Legion hall at half past seven.

Two new candidates, Mrs. Hobart Smith and Mrs. Lynn Elliott, will be initiated into membership by the local drill team. As special guests for the evening, several members of the Polo Post will drive over. An enjoyable evening has been arranged for the members and guests by Mrs. Charles Edson, who is in charge of the entertainment. Refreshments for the occasion will be prepared by a committee consisting of Mrs. Howard Robinson, chairman, Mrs. C. J. Price, Mrs. Ernest Boydston and Mrs. William Holsinger. memories which their fortieth wedding anniversary brought to Mr. and Mrs. Ira R. Hendrickson, were the felicitations which their many friends extended to them on Wednesday. In the evening, the ladies of the QPK and their husbands, dropped in informally for a party which included a few games of contract. Mrs. Hendrickson used sweet peas in white urns, to decorate the table for the late luncheon which she served. Well be back with a brass band and a pot of gold for your fiftieth, Mr. and Mrs. H.

In the spring the ladies' fancies seriously turn to thoughts of gardening. And so it was with a great deal of pleasure, that the members of the Current Events Club listened to an excellent paper on "Grandmother's Thoughts, Were She to See Our Modern Gardens," by Mrs. Robert Harvey, and to an equally fine collection of garden clippings, and several apt poems, which had been arranged by Mrs. W. Joe Lundholm, Frank Dougherty, Clifford Newcomer, Murray Dumont, Dallas Baker, August Hanke, Josie Brinker, Charles Edson and Boyd Stouffer.

Mrs. Fred Hires and Mrs. Chester Newburg and Gene Carr drove to Kings on Tuesday evening to be the dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hayes.

Mrs. Elmo McNett won the prize for high score when Miss Jeanette Noble entertained her bridge club members on Monday evening.

Dr. Ted Thomas of Polo and Mrs. Pearl Kable and the Messrs. and Mesdames Louis Finch, Alva Booth, Gerald Hough and M. C. Small are driving to Rockford this evening where they will dine together and attend the theater.

The play, "The Terrible Menk" will be presented at the United Church in Byron on Sunday evening by the cast, who are the Rev. R. N. Hoover, Miss Virgil Turner and Lloyd Pearce.

Mr. and Mrs. Andy Anderson, Miss Lorraine Stone, Miss Pearl Hansford, Forrest Barber and Preston Suter, all of Batavia, were the Sunday supper guests of Mr. and Mrs. George Hansford, the folks being here to attend the Young People's rally at the Brethren church.

The members of the Philathea class of the Christian church met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Chambers last Friday evening, with Mr. and Mrs. O. B. Martin assisting. The guests who were present were the Messrs. and Mmes. Ralph Sawyer, Royce Martin, Clyde Barteau, Byron Stiger, and Rev. and Mrs. Noble Bollinger, and the Mmes. O. Miller, Otto Huthamel, Rosa Dehl, LeRoy Gorman and Arthur Stouffer, and Lloyd Dehl of Byron.

Mrs. R. S. Kelsey entertained the members of her bridge club on Friday afternoon, last week.

Miss Grace Jiracek was pleasantly surprised on Tuesday afternoon when a few of her co-workers from Kable News publishing company came to help her celebrate her birthday anniversary. Following a chop suey supper served by Mrs. Grace Jiracek the guests spent the evening playing the popular game of monopoly. Grace was the recipient of many lovely handkerchiefs given her by the guests, who were Mr. and Mrs. Everett Henderson and the Mmes. Marian Stonebraker, and Lillian Thurn, and Max Kahn, Paul Smith and Elmer Butler.

TOBY HAN, 17, works behind the jewelry counter of a large Manhattan department store. She poses for a photograph to be used in a store advertisement and MARY HATTE, the photographer, tells her she has a "camera face."

Discharged from the store due to the scheming of a jealous MARY HATTE, Toby has difficulty finding another job. Then she meets MARY HATTE, manager of a model agency. Toby registers at the agency, secures work as a model.

Has a bus one afternoon she meets wealthy TIMOTHY JAMESON who tries to make a date with her. Toby refused. Toby and her friend, HARRIET HOLM, take part in a benefit show. CAROL WASHBURN, wealthy and snobbish, also models in the show. Toby, parading as a model, sees Jameson again. He asks her to have dinner with him and insistently agrees. NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XVI
THEY sat on a bench against the side of the room. Almost all the tables were filled now, except that here and there couples had left their places to dance in the square space reserved for that purpose. The floor show had ended a few minutes before. Now the dance band was playing a gay and rhythmic tune, the hit number of a new musical show.

Tim Jameson touched Toby's arm. "Bored?" he asked.

"Oh—no."

"I thought you must be; you've been quiet for so long."

"Have I?" Toby smiled. "I'd forgotten. I think I'd forgotten everything—this room and the people."

"And did you forget me, too?"

"Well—in a way. I was thinking how happy I am. Wishing everything could go on and on, just as it is now—the music and soft lights and everybody having a grand time. Oh, I have had a grand time tonight, a wonderful time! I don't know when—"

"Well, that's better!" Tim smiled, eyes twinkling. "Then he smiled. 'You're a funny little thing, Toby Ryan. Did you know that?'"

"Why?"

She had never looked lovelier. Her eyes, brightly questioning, seemed enormous. Her head was lifted, bringing into outline the adorable line of her throat. She put one hand to her cheek, tucking a stray curl into place and he noticed how graceful the movement was.

"Never mind," Tim said. "You're exactly the way I like you. And I'll tell you something else. I saw you this afternoon—no, I don't mean those few moments when we talked together. It was after I came away and went back. I was early; you see, I didn't want to take a chance of missing you. The fashion show was still going on and I stood at the door a moment. I saw you come in in a dress that was sort of rose colored—like pink sea foam. It was an evening dress."

Toby nodded. "It was lovely, wasn't it?"

"Lovely? It was gorgeous—or rather you were gorgeous, wearing it. That's what you are and that's what I'm going to call you. Gorgeous. It's exactly the right name for you. Do you mind?"

She laughed. "I don't see why I should."

"Neither do I, Gorgeous."

They both laughed then, for no reason at all. Toby said, "I like your name—Tim. It seems to suit you. It sounds care-free and good-natured and—"

"Lazy"

"Well, I wouldn't say that. At least, I wasn't going to. Is it true?"

"Some people think so," he frowned. "But why should I pretend to like sitting around in an office when I don't? I've tried and I hate it. Looking at charts and tables and pretending to know what they mean. Going to conferences and hearing some old duffer spout off a lot of facts and figures that nobody gives a darn about or even listens to. It's tripe, that's what it is. Besides, if I did have a job, it would only mean taking it away from some poor devil who needs it. Why should I do that?"

Toby thought of Carol Marsh and nodded. "I see what you mean," she said, "and I think I agree with you."

"The way things are," Tim went on, "the business is a lot better off than it was. I'm trying to put my ear in. Sometime, of course, maybe I'll feel differently about it. Meanwhile, I've got other things to do—"

"What, for instance?"

"Oh, lots of things. Fooling around with boats in the summer. Playing golf and a little polo—I'm terrible at it, but still I like to keep at it. Staying in town in the winter, getting around and seeing people and keeping track of what's going on."

"It sounds like a pleasant life," Toby told him.

"It's all right. Tell me, Gorgeous, do you like being a model?"

"I like it a lot better than working at Bergmann's."

He considered this. "Yes, I guess you would. But how about going around to studios and style shows and the places you do. Don't you meet a lot of fresh guys?"

The dimple showed in her cheek. "Only one, so far. There's a Mr. Timothy Jameson, who's been something of a nuisance."

He grinned. "And what are you going to do about it?"

"I haven't quite decided yet."

"Well," he said, "if I can be of assistance in any way—"

"Thank you, I'll remember that."

THE music that had ended a short time before was beginning again. This time the band played a number with a slower tempo. Toby had heard the words, sung by a radio favorite. They were rather sentimental and it was a dreamy, sentimental tune.

She said suddenly, "Let's dance." He had asked her earlier and she had refused, afraid to reveal that she was not a practiced dancer. But her caution proved unnecessary. In Tim's arms she moved lightly, smoothly.

The dancing space was small and crowded. Another couple, rather awkward, swung toward them and he held her closer. Toby felt his cheek against her hair. It was only for an instant; the awkward couple moved on and Tim released her.

He said, "Why didn't you tell me you can dance like this?"

She laughed, not bothering to reply. She had never known that dancing could be much sheer delight, but then, she had never had such a partner.

She was sorry, when, at last, the music ended and they went back to their table. Several new-comers were entering, the women in evening wraps and the men in tail coats. Toby saw that nearby tables had been deserted. Suddenly she realized it must be growing late.

DAILY HEALTH

IVAN PETROVICH PAVLOV.

The recent death of Ivan Petrovich head of the famous biologic experimental institution in Russia, marks the end of a long brilliant career. His contributions to physiology and psychology were great.
Pavlov was born in 1849.
In 1904, he was awarded the Nobel prize for his biologic investigations. Last year, when the International Neurologic congress was held in London, he spoke on "Men and Dogs." That title well summarizes Pavlov's life work. He studied the dog to elucidate human problems better.

Pavlov was essentially a physiologist, and his life-long interest centered about the riddle of digestion. Posterity, however, will in all probability honor Pavlov, above all his other attainments, for his discovery of the "conditioned reflex."

This discovery, made accidentally, as were so many other discoveries famous in medical history, proved a landmark in psychology. Indeed, some believe that Pavlov's conditioned reflex revolutionized functional psychology. The behavioristic school of psychology is founded on the conditioned reflex, though it should be added that the behaviorism of the American psychologist Watson, and the behaviorism of Pavlov bear only a superficial resemblance.

The conditioned reflex can only be properly appreciated when considered in conjunction with the elementary patterns of simple reflexes. An idea of the mechanisms involved may be gained from this definition of "conditioned reflex" by C. K. Ogden:
"When two impulses have co-operated to produce a certain response, it is found that after a sufficient number of repetitions, one of them alone may bring it about, though formerly inadequate by itself. Such a response is said to be conditioned. A new stimulus has been substituted for the old, and the response now occurs under new conditions."

Detroit Bishop Is Visitor in Florida

Bishop Gallagher

A NOTABLE visitor in Florida was Bishop Michael J. Gallagher of Detroit. In his see is included the parish of Father Charles E. Coughlin, whose right to broadcast his views has been upheld consistently by the bishop.

Bodies preserved with a treatment of paraffin can be kept without decay for an indefinite time, according to Prof. E. J. Farris, who developed the treatment.

Have You Seen

The New Air Conditioned ICE Refrigerators

They are beautiful...gleaming white, inside and out, and require re-icing only once in four to seven days.

Because of their new, scientific construction, there is a constant circulation of moisture-laden air of the proper temperature at all times. Food cannot dry out and there is no mixture of food flavors.

These new air-conditioned ice refrigerators cost only 1/2 to 1/3 what you would expect to pay for them, and because only quality materials have been used in their construction, they will deliver a lifetime service.

See them today... Start enjoying modern, air-conditioned refrigeration tomorrow.

On Display at 122 E. First Street and at Our Plant, 532 E. River Street
